Editor Is Named NHS Top Citizen

Craig Mueller, "Rhodes Review" editor was presented the Citizen of the Month award last Wednesday. The award, initiated by the National Honor Society last year, is issued to students who are outstanding citizens.

Mueller has devoted much time and effort to improving the school and community by working on community and extra-curricular activities.

These include the German Club, Foreign Affairs Club, co-editor of the January '67 Aries, president of the 12A class, and president of Teenage Republican Club.

"This is indeed a great honor for me," comments Mueller. "I was very much surprised when the committee's decision was announced. I'd like to thank all those involved in the selection."

Recipient of the award last May was Chuck Mahmet, former Student Council president, now attending Bowling Green State University.

RHODES' "IT'S ACADEMIC" team, shown here, was victorious over Chanel and East High Schools, winning a volume of the Harvard Classics for the school.

Varsity Scholars Score Third Victory, Chanel, East, Fall on 'It's Academic'

By TODD EGGER

Larry Boyd, senior, and Chris Ulicky and John Beatty, juniors carried the Rhodes banner on the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. WEWS-TV "It's Academic" quiz program on Saturday, December 17, and were victorious over Chanel and East high schools.

WEWS has invited local scholars to appear on the 7 p.m. program four times in the last three years, and three separate Rhodes teams have scored victories.

The three schools competed for their choice of Collier's Encyclopedias, or Harvard Classics. The school, on its victory, was presented with the Harvard Classics, and each individual team member received a monogrammed portfolio as a souvenir.

The final score saw a total of 310 points for the Rhodes scholars, and 270 and 110 points for Chanel and East respectively.

JOHN BEATTY served as team captain to choose the pack of questions for the other teams to answer. In the event any of the members were unable to participate, Holly Kuehner, 11A and Joyce Duffala, 12B, and Rich Balch, 11B, stood by as alternates.

NHS Inducts 30 New Members, Mr. Pierson Is Guest Speaker

By HELEN POHLID

Thirty students were inducted into the National Honor Society Monday during an assembly held for eleventh and twelfth grade students.

New members from the 12A class were Patricia Kofsky, Roy Montonaro, Craig Mueller and Boyce Watkins. The 12B's were Robert Baker, Linda Beatty, Brenda Campbell, Reba Cassidy, Linda Cholnick, Linda Demaline, Mary Dobrinich, Joyce Duffala, James Gochnour, Ruth Hess, James Keefer, Karen Koch, Cheryl Luinski, Carl Miller, Brenda Montgomery, and Paula Olszonicki. The ten 11A's were Charlene Farson, Pamela Felice, Dale Irwin, Jerome Jermann, Thomas Kissig, Holly Kuehner, Lois Lehman, Nelson Miller, Arlene Swencky, and Ruth Tekus.

JOCELYN Lowe, 12B, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Alan Pierson. Mr. Pierson, Supervisor of the Social Studies Department, taught at Rhodes for two years, as well as in various other east and west side schools. "The Years of Your Life" was the theme

Choir, Glee Club Perform At Assembly This Morning

By CAROL WEIDEMAN

Performing in a double-assembly Christmas program this morning will be the Senior Choir, the Glee Club, and the Boys' Octet, under the direction of Mr. Gilbert Van Nortwick, vocal music teacher.

The traditional performance will be given after the second period, at 10 a.m., to half the student body. The other students will attend the second assembly after an extended homeroom period.

TENTATIVE selections to be included from last night's annual Christmas Concert are "Joy to the World," "There Shall a Star," and "And the Glory" by the choir. The Glee Club may sing "The Snow," "Gesu Bambino," and "The Dove."

Tentative numbers for the Boys' Octet are "The Animals A-Comin'," and "O, Won't You Sit Down?"

"WE USED to present one abbreviated concert for all the students at the end of the day," comments Mr. Van Nortwick. He said the full program cannot be performed now because of the limited amount of time and the increased size of the student body.

Accompanying the Glee Club will be Kathy Kirkwood, 11B; Pat Lehman, 11B, will accompany the choir.

Betty Bradford is Editor Of June '67 Yearbook

Assisting Betty Bradford, 12B, editor of the June '67 Aries are yearbook staff members, Anita Arnold, Larry Boyd, Brenda Campbell, Reba Cassidy, Greg Galen, Larry Klich, Karen Koch, Stephanie Maskovich, Paula Olszonicki and Cheryl Tedesco, 12B's.

The yearbook, 192 pages, is under the sponsorship of Mr. William Stacks, art teacher.

Computers Play Cupid, Arrow Set for Jan. 6

By CHRIS FIGULI

Computers will play Cupid as they match ideal dates among Rhodes students for the Student Council Computer dance to be held on January 6 from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Boys' Gym.

Tickets ordered in advance cost $1 each and entitle the owner to a 50-question "Personality Preference Inventory" sheet.

WHEN THE questionnaires are completed by each student, they are sent to Computer Headquarters to be analyzed.

"Each answer card will be electronically matched with at least two 'ideal dates' for the evening," states Student Council President Brenda Campbell, 12B.

THE NUMBERS of each person's IBM partners will be revealed at the dance.

"Tickets sold were divided evenly between the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades," relates Miss Sonia Sarsarak, Student Council advisor, "and then evenly divided between the boys' and girls' homerooms within the grade."

DECORATIONS are being made by the social committee, headed by Larry Klich and Sue Gurba, 12B's. The setting will follow the theme of automation and computers.

Music will be provided by the Perotitis and refreshments will be sold.

Ram Flashes

GLC Banquet

Graduating senior members will be honored by the Girls' Gym Leaders Club at their annual banquet to be held January 9.

Christmas Vacation

Christmas vacation will commence today at 3:30 and will end on January 4.

Garden Awards

A Gold pin award for five or more years of outstanding gardening were given to Rhodians, Judy Drost, Bonnie Dull, Roberta Kaplysh, Mary Kirkwood, Mike Sawczak, and Eugenie Schmid.

Cagers Battle for First Win of Season, Rams Occupy Last Place in Senate

By JEFF FORTE

Off to South High will be the Rhodes cagers in search of their first victory of the season on Saturday, January 7. The Flyers have a record of two wins against five losses and are a formidable opponent with four returning letterman.

Five days ago, the Rams tallied their seventh straight defeat of the season in a 65-58 contest with Holy Name. This loss put the Rhodes quintet in the cellar in West Senate standings.

TOP SCORER FOR the Rams in last Saturday's game was guard Brian Roggenburk with 19 points. From the floor, the Ram cagers made 50% of their shots while the Green Wave had only 38%.

Last Friday night, the invading Ignatius Wildcats cat-nipped the Rams in a 79-53 contest. The Rhodes cagers out-rebounded Ignatius with a total of 45 rebounds as compared to the Wildcats' 27.

"They were hotter than a fire-cracker," states head coach Mr. Andy Moran in speaking about the shooting of the Wildcats, who made 49% of their shots from the floor.

WEEKEND BEFORE last, the Rams took on two of the toughest teams in the West Senate: West Tech and Max Hayes.

On Friday of that weekend, the local five traveled to West Tech for a tussle with last year's senate champs. With 1:42 left in the game and the score: West Tech 47, Rhodes 43, the Warriors put on the stall. After two successful foul shots by

I SEE AMERICA SURFING

By CHRIS ULICKY

*I see America surfing, the bronzed beach bums I see,
Their tresses long and golden, basking their biceps in the noonday sun.
Big Kahuna riding the pipeline to the edge of the world,
The city-sap, wiping out as he breaks his snow-white leg,
The marvel from Waikiki, riding the nose to eternity and back,
The ogled surf-bunny, oiling her gorgeous frame,
Brian, Dennis, Carl, Al, and Mike, strumming to the rhythm of the waves.
Each surfing, finding his niche in the world of the beach.
And over it all—
The Coast Guard bellow sounding like a demon's dying wails.*

West Tech and a final two-pointer by the Rams, the game ended in a near upset with the final score: West Tech 49, Rhodes 45.

The following night the Ram quintet played host to another senate leader, Max Hayes. The Rams bowed to the Lakers in a close 48-42 decision. The game ended as forward Ken Bania sunk a half court shot with two seconds left to play.

Grapplers Seek Victory Over Lawyers To Remain Undefeated in West Senate

By HARRY MARANTIDES

Defending West Senate Champs, John Marshall, will make a bid to spoil the Rams perfect 3-0 record when they invade the Rhodes gym tonight at 7:30 p.m.

However, the Rams hope to keep their unblemished record as they go after their fourth straight victory at the Lawyers' expense. The Rams last three victories have been over Collinwood, West High and Max Hayes Trade School. Marshall lost to South 27-16 last Tuesday.

FOUR PINS WERE put on the Cowboys as the Rams had an easy time whipping them 37-5, December 8. Pins were executed by Mike Fait, 103, John Hudak, 112, Al Musca, 138, and Ed Vanselow, 145.

Musca and especially Hudak and Fait made fine comebacks from the Collinwood match as these boys were really torn apart by the Collinwood grapplers. Another impressive performance was turned in by Jim Trela, 145, against West. Trela overcame a near pin to win on a decision.

AGAINST MAX HAYES last Tuesday, the Lakers went down 31-6. Jim Dimitris and Dominic Nasca threw halves in the second period for pins. Other impressive victories were witnessed by Tom Bindernagel, 120, and Bill Alford, 165.

Bindernagel had possession of his man all the way and won on a decision 9-0. Bill Alford had two near pins but could not put the final touches on his opponent. He won on a decision 6-0.

BOYS WHO STILL remain undefeated in their respective divisions are Tom Bindernagel, 120; Jim Dimitris, 127; Jim Trela, 145; Ed Vanslow, 154; Bill Alford, 165; Dennis Marconi, 175;

ADDRESSING BUSINESS and law classes on the functions of the juvenile court is Judge John J. Toner, a judge in the Juvenile Court of Cuyahoga County.

Judge Toner Lectures Classes, Relates Facts On Teens, Courts

By TIM DEMBOWSKI

"In the eyes of the law Rhodians are all right. The percentage of Rhodes' students who come into Juvenile Court is extremely low."

So said the Honorable Judge John J. Toner of Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court. The Judge lectured Mr. John White's business and law classes on December 7.

The Judge's lecture encompassed the functioning and some insight into Juvenile Court.

THE COURT HAS jurisdiction over all offenses committed by minors. Authority over negligent parents, adults charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and paternity cases is delegated to this court.

Judge Toner pointed out that Juvenile Court places emphasis on the offender rather than on the offense. The court determines the motivating forces behind actions of the offender.

"DELINQUENCY RATES are at an all time high, he said. "A good percentage of the offenders are Negroes who come from broken homes, and lower classes."

The Judge pointed out the delinquency rate is up 17%. Illegitimacy, V.D., and crime rates are at an all time high.

Most offenders are returned to their parents on probation. Others are placed in private schools, such as Blossom Hill for girls and Hudson Boys' Farm. The State set up a special youth commission four years ago, with offices in 88 counties.

"NEWSPAPERS BLAST the judge if he goes easy on an offender," expressed the Judge, "People feel a good judge is one who gives the impression of beating the heck out of somebody in court. The rehabilitation of an offender," he said "is important in helping him to become a good citizen."

"We are lucky for our freedom and democracy," Judge Toner said. "We can change it by the popular vote. These are problems of every generation and will become those of youth before we realize it."

Rhodians Plan to Capture Saint Nick

By CAROL GAGE

Remember the "good ole days" when you anticipated with excitement the arrival of Santa Claus on Christmas Eve? Did you ever think of capturing him? Rhodians had varied ideas when asked, "How would you capture Santa Claus?"

Richard Kalynchuk, 10A: "I would bribe Rudolph."

Gilbert Bocetti, 11B: "Magic."
Pat Lehman, 11B: "Make out like Mrs. Santa Claus."

Carol Kelly, 10A: "I'd stand under the mistletoe."

Jeff Posen, 11B: "Put salt on Santa's tail."

DeAnn Ewell, 10A: "Talk to Mr. Jinglyng."

Chris Konopinski, 11B: "Get a potato sack and wait till he walks down Vincent Avenue then drop it over his head from a lamp post."

Jennie Guger, 12B: "Santa Claus doesn't come to our house."

Zor Dmytrak, 11B: "The bait would be a bag full of toys."

Sandy Romak, 10B: "Put a net at the bottom of the chimney for when he comes down."

Dave Johnson, 11B: "Roll his sleigh."

Nancy Hymes, 10A: "Rig a net."

Sylvia Margioras, 11B: "Stick Santa with a pin or needle and deflate him, or have a vat of plum pudding at the bottom of the chimney."

Nancy Lezak, 10B: "Attack him at the knees as he comes down the chimney."

Cindy Metzger, 11B: "Beat him over the head with my mother's cookies."

Calla Clise, 12B: "I wouldn't want to capture Santa Claus cause I wouldn't get any presents."

Rich Kennedy, 10B: "I would put some food on a table in a small room then when he walks in I would shut the door."

Jeff Griffin, 11B: "Put a fire in the fireplace."

Vince Savitsky, 12B: "I would capture him in a brown paper bag. It has to be brown too or it wouldn't work."

Dale Griffin, 10A: "I'd steal his toys."

Angie Weber, 12B: "Put food out for the reindeer and when they were eating it I would capture Santa Claus."

Mary Reed, 10A: "I would wait till he came down the chimney and throw a net over him."

Marlene Folesar, 12B: "I would shrink the chimney."

Letters To Santa

Dear Santa,

All year I've been a "good little teacher," so I feel justified in making the following request. Please bring me one new class—just one—nothing elaborate, nothing fancy, just a well-behaved, receptive, mannerly, organized, contented, responsive bunch of kids is all I ask. Last year I believe you misunderstood my letter, as you left in my "stocking" 30 students who have driven me to the point of insanity.

As I sit here munching on my tranquilizers, I look back to those harrowing seventh period sessions with a feeling of terror . . . Flying paper wads, wet erasers, illegible term papers, test papers with half the answers scratched out and arrows and notes directing me where to look for the next answer, maddening whispering, and daydream-struck pupils.

This Christmas please send me a few kids who don't snicker when I drop and break the chalk, whisper loudly, "here he comes!" when I approach the classroom door, or write one-sentence answers for essay questions. I'd appreciate it very much Santa, if you'd fulfill this request as stated. But just in case you don't, slip a small supply of "Compoz" into my stocking.

Thanks,
Faculty Dreamer

* * *

Dear Santa,

I'm one of those born losers known as a high school student. For years I've searched for what I consider "the perfect teacher." Needless to say, I haven't succeeded. I hope that you will find the teacher I've dreamed of.

Right off I'll tell you that this teacher does not necessarily have to be a member of the "Pepsi generation" or even the "Dodge Rebellion," but should be on "our side." Just send me one who doesn't call on me very often and only when I have my hand up. I'd like a teacher who doesn't holler a lot and who doesn't make the class go to the library very often. I would appreciate one who goes out every night so he doesn't have time to grade book reports, essays, and tests and, therefore, rarely assigns them. Please send a teacher who gives lectures on more interesting topics than the "carbon content of a candle." I'd like one who gives everyone an "A" or a "B" just for coming to class and gives "ones" in attitude to everyone even if they don't laugh at his jokes.

I know I'm asking for a lot, but perhaps if you keep an eye out during your travels, you could come up with a reasonable facsimile.

See you on December 24,
Joe Student

CHILDREN AT THE Jones Home are enjoying their early Christmas gift, a Zenith television, thanks to contributions to the Rhodes Review project from the student body.
