Tickets on Sale For Turkey Day

Along with turkey and cranberry sauce, the annual Plain Dealer Championship football game, to be held at the Cleveland Stadium on November 23, will add to this year's Thanksgiving spirit.

THIS SEASON the schools in competition are North and Benedictine. They will be representing the best of the East and West. Seven teams.

Receipts of the game will go towards the Cleveland High School Medical Benefit Fund. The money collected from this event will aid the school system a great deal since it provides insurance for any student involved in the sport for a year.

TICKETS ARE BEING sold in the gym office by Mr. John Kress, athletic director. Prices for tickets are $0.60 cents for students, $2.50 for adults, and reserved seats at $1.50, $2.50 and $5.00.

"I hope enough students purchase tickets so that we will be able to reach our quota of $75,755," states Mr. Kress.

No movie will be shown this year to these students holding tickets for the game.

Four Days in November Is This Week's Movie

The documentary, "Four Days in November" about the late President John F. Kennedy, and narrated by Richard Boone, is the noon movie that began on Tuesday and will be shown until November 23.

No film will be shown November 24 and 25 because of Thanksgiving Vacation.

After the two day vacation, Victor and Peter Lee will star in the movie "The Raven," from November 26 to December 2.

The Outing, starring Paul Newman and Laurence Harvey will begin December 5 and end December 9.

Outstanding Senior Gridder

Gallaher Awarded Los Harvorth Trophy

By JEFF GLIL

I was highly honored to receive the award," states Jim Gallagher, 12B, after receiving halftime of the Rhodes-West Tech football game last Saturday.

"The purpose of this award is to provide a greater incentive for seniors in order to make not only a better team, but a better school," comments Mr. Prevost.

The trophy was presented by Homecoming Queen Linda Lapos and Pat Throold, Booster Club chairman. The award, sponsored by the Boosters, is given to the outstanding senior gridder each season.

The trophy was named after Los Harvorth, 1923 Rhodes graduate, the only conference ever to be named a College All-American.

"I think that Jim is a real fine recipient of this award and without a doubt is the best player that we have," commented Mr. James Templem, head football coach.

Selection is based on individual contributions as running back, as playing ability and is made by Coach Templem.

AMONG THE SMILES of four young children are page two editor, Helen Pohlid, who recently visited the Jones Home for children.

'Aries' Staff to Sponsor Dance Tonight in Gym

By MARY ANNE SROKA

The "Rumpty Tump Rock," a dance being sponsored by the staff of the January '67 Aries will be held in the Rhodes' Ballroom from 8-11 tonight for Rhodes students and their dates.

"By attending this function," states Mr. William Stacks, yearbook advisor, "Rhodians can have an enjoyable evening, while helping defray the enormous cost of the January yearbook.'"

THE PURPOSE of this dance is to raise money for the January '67 Aries. Admission to the "Rumpty Tump Rock" is $1.25 per couple and $.75 per stag. Dress will be casual and refreshments will be served.

"Because it is the end of football season," comments Carol O cerebral, business manager, and basketball season does not start until the week after, we expect to have a good turnout," states Mrs. Stacks.

MUSIC will be provided by the "Pound Four Outlaws." Members of this band are Barry Sabin, organ; Skip Cooper, drums; Frank Longo, rhythm guitar; Jim Chapler, bass guitar; Joe Dee, lead guitar.

The "yearbook staff," comments Craig Neulander, senior class president, "should put much effort and planning into this dance. We hope it will be a success and the students will support our cause.'"

THE ARIES' staff members include Arlene Gerasatte, editor; Craig Mueller, co-editor; Carol O cerebral, business manager; Martha Amo, photographer; Boyce Walsh, sports editor; Terri Gavel, faculty; Rex Apel, senior, and Randy Obozhivich, activities.

Other staff members, Janet Blioli, George Findlay, Lawrence Kossental, and Frank Britty.

Choir to Perform December 8, Mr. Krehbiel to Direct Group

Senior Choir members will appear with other area high schools in the Annual "Christmas High Chap- us Festival." December 8, Rhodes will participate in the morning performance at John F. Kennedy High School. An afternoon performance will also be held at Lincoln High School.

The individual choirs will perform three selections and join in one mass choir under the direction of Mr. Clay- ton Krehbiel, scholar-in-residence. Mr. Krehbiel has always been able to present his choirs to the mass choirs on the individual performances.

Rhode, Senior Choir selection will include Paeans for Christmas by Shaw, There Shall a Star by Man- delein, and a German carol, entitled, Still, Still, Still. The mass choirs will perform Messiah's "And- Heavens! Handel's And the Glory of God Here, and O Be Jolget."

Accompanying the Senior Choir and the mass choir will be Pat Loh- man, 11B, who was chosen by Miss Esther Keller, Assistant Supervisor of vocal music.

TeaHouse' Curtain Time is 8 p. m., Stage Sets Are Under Construction

By JUDY NORTON

Working hard at completing the task of making the sets for "The Tea House of the August Moon," are Mr. Harry Hermann and the stagecraft classes. The sets must be completed by curtain time December 8-9 at 8 p.m. in Rhodes auditorium.

"It will take the boys approximately three weeks to complete the three sets needed for the play," states Mr. Hermann.

They were delayed at starting the sets because of the elections held in the auditorium Tuesday, November 8, and the yearbook pictures, November 16 and 11.

The goal of the stagecraft crew is to transform plywood into three sets. One set is a tea house and two other office sets.

Two added props to those sets are an Army jeep, made from the body of a Volks Wagen and a real live goat.

The goat is being loaned for the play by Janet Phillips, 12B.

"Ultimately, after a few at- tempt, we got the body of the Volks Wagen through the door which was comparatively more narrow than the body of the car," commented Terry Neil- man, 12A, a member of the stagecraft crew.

While the stagecraft crew works bullet to complete its job, one might hear the voices of the main characters, David Dybn, 11B; Jim Levington, 11B and 12B's Bryan Cusumano, Saddle Schamp, Sue Oremie and Bob Eather, rehasing their parts in "The Tea House of the August Moon."

Directing the play is Miss Rita Dobrisky and assisting her is Holly Koster, 11A.

Students' Fault?

In past publications, the Review has discussed at great lengths the problems and faults at Rhodes. After much deliberation, the editors now wonder if the students are totally responsible for this.

It would seem that the students and faculty alike would try to co-operate to remedy this. The Review has learned, however, that a small minority of the teachers refuse to extend the courtesy of co-operation to the Student Council by allowing members to attend sanctioned activities, and also from upon students' ability to have pictures taken for the yearbook.

Reform comes in the form of actual threat of a grade change or severe recommendations for the National Honor Society. Students have been further abused by impromptu quizzes issued in reprisal for the leaving of the school.

These threats instill fear in the students and the atmosphere created is unhealthy and not conducive to learning. The Rhodesians feel that perhaps these few teachers should reflect upon their own high school days.

A Movie Review

The Restless Ones Depicts Today's Teen

By ANITA ARNOLD

After several motion pictures portraying today's youth as a rebellious mob on motorcycles, The Restless Ones presents a unique approach on the subject of teenagers.

Although the situation of the film is remote to most, it is not unknown to our time. Central figures in the film are April and David, two sixteen-year-olds from opposite backgrounds but with the same frustrations and outlook on life.

April's mother is an alcoholic who provides a sometimes unbearable home life, completely lacking in love. Because she is given no guidance or discipline, she develops a set of morals.

David is close to both of his parents and is serious for their approval. But he also wants to prove his maturity to his friends, and to April by drinking, vandalism and courting.

The Restless Ones does not portray all youth in general, nor does it condemn youth. It attempts to show a few teenagers, with some of today's problems, and explains why these problems are unique to this generation.

The central theme is that teenagers have important resources, being mismanaged and misunderstood through parental irresponsibility, urban problems, hard sell sales, and changing moral concepts.

Happy Last Thanksgiving Day to all turkeys reading this column. The Review wishes to extend good luck to the "FA's Academic" team who will fight it out on November 21.

Permission for the design was obtained for former Athletic Director William B., I asked Coach Temple for a seat at the Marshall game. He said "Leave it to me." He got me seats. From where I sat, the game was just a roar. I was so high up I was getting whiplash. The tickets took me half way up the stairs. He said, "You'll have to go the rest of the way yourself." From here on, my nose starts to bleed.

Students Sound Off

Dear Editor:

Why don't we have lunch room cleanup each lunch more? The Cafeteria is a mess, it's a mess. It's food, garbage, and the kids who have study hall usually have to sit in a mess.

Marty McMurphy, 12th

Dear Marty,

Would you like to volunteer?

Staff

Dear Editor,

I would like information on how to join the staff of the Rhodes Review.

George Balens, 11th

Dear George,

First requirements include: Nerves of steel, intestinal fortitude, an inquiring mind, no home life, and a partiality for warm-over supper.

Next, you make up your schedule for the next semester, make sure you add beginning journalism.

Craig Mueller, Editor

Dear Editor,

I think our new assistant principal Miss Mine is a great girl, counselor. She is so understanding. I try to go to all of Miss Mine, allowed the majorities to get skirts, and I think this shows that she thinks the girls in the school are mature enough to have this privilege. I think she cares about all of us, and wants to be as understanding as she can.

Students Vegetarians Protest Turkey-Slaughter

By RAE AARON

Turkey Day is once more close at hand, and the inevitable question is being raised: "Is killing turkeys for Thanksgiving dinner justified?" The opinions of Rhodes students and faculty have varied.

Terry Nethan, 10th: "Yes, because otherwise the turkeys would population would take over.

Chris Kompaick, 11th: "If it's all right with the turkeys, it's all right with me.

Coryna Henson, 11th: "No, because turkeys have a right to live just like anything else.

Wayne Miller, 11th: "I think we should serve us a better substitute because they go better with cranberry sauce.

Brad Price, 11th: "I think it's unfair to kill pickled hammoats.

Lynn Norman, 12th: "Yes, but if you do it to Turkey you have to do it to Israel too.

Mr. Randall, instrumental music teacher: "Yes, put on a vegetarian.

Carole Kelly, 10th: "If turkeys were good enough for the Filipinos they should be good enough for us.

Mike Gudlich, 12th: "No, because.

Carol Bevis, 11th: "Yes, Survival of the fittest and all that.

Bryan Cramota, 11th: "Yes, because they are raised for food. They're used at another time if it wasn't for Thanksgiving."

Mr. J. J. Stillinger, principal: "Yes, but it is inexcusable."

Mary Ann McCreary, 11th: "You, because that's what the turkey experts, 12th, and I wouldn't want to disappoint them."

Ron Piazza, 11th: "I like to eat turkey but I hate to have them killed just because I want to eat them.

Keith Hunter, 11th: "I don't believe turkeys should have to stick their necks out.

Marc Amos, 12th: "It's not fair on the grounds that you build him up to high expectations and then cut his throat.

Tina Brownlow, Tina Calafiyos, 11th: "It's all right to kill them as long as you don't hurt them.

Turkey Farm owner Jeff Griffin, 11th: "Since I've stopped killing my turkeys we've stopped eging my farm on Halloween."

Mr. Jack Bosswan, Math teacher: "It is definitely unfair, for no special reason."

Lynn Maximyk, 11th: "No comment."

Heath Care's Corner

The physical therapist...what is this career all about?
The physical therapist works with patients who have had injuries or illnesses and/or have lost the ability to help them regain such functions as walking or using their hands.

I suppose reasons don't occur overnight. You're right. Progress with patients tends to be slow. So the physical therapist needs patience, perseverance, and the ability to inspire self-confidence in patients.

What might a physical therapist actually do for the patient? It depends, of course, on the patient's injury or illness. The therapist is prepared to use scientific and therapeutic exercises, whirlpool baths, heating and cooling, ultra-violet rays and electricity.

Electricity, that's shocking! True enough. The physical therapist must be trained in ethical standards to stimulate a patient's paralyzed muscles.
Deaf Pupils Learn, Acquire Friends
Aided by Special Hearing Equipment

By NANCY LIPOWSKI

Enriching their educational and cultural background and sharing new experiences, ideas, and friendships are ten deaf students from Alexander Graham Bell, the only school for the deaf in Cleveland.

The students, taught primarily by Mr. Chester Varney, are 10ths Nancy Brown, Carol Fravako, Rosalind Fleming, John Moholski, and Joan Simms, and 11ths Carrie Adams, Jennie Dombich, Raynelle Slaughter, Ronald Piazza, and Charles Knuckles.

RHODES IS THE first and only high school in Cleveland to offer an academic curriculum for the profoundly deaf, a term which designates the degree to which the students can hear. Although they are handicapped in the sense of hearing, the students follow a schedule which includes the ordinary academic subjects of English, science, social studies, and math.

Among the special equipment used in these classes are a microphone and transmitting wire which are placed in a rectangular pattern beneath the floor tile. Students sitting within the rectangle can adjust their hearing aids to receive the sound of the teacher's voice as he speaks through the microphone.

Other classes attended by the students besides those taught by Mr. Varney are home economics, typing, personal regimen, art, printing, mechanical drawing, metal, stage craft, and physical education.

"THIS IS A wonderful experience for the deaf students to be in a high school with hearing children," states Mr. Varney, "and choose from a wide variety of courses that are not offered at Alexander Graham Bell."

"I especially like the art and clothing classes which I was not able to take at A.G.B.," remarks Jennie Dombich, 11th.

Carrie Adams, 11th, is in her third semester of typing. She plans to pursue a career in clerical work. She feels that she has been able to become proficient in typing because many people here at Rhodes are interested in helping deaf students.

"I FELT SCARED meeting pupils with normal hearing in school," recalls Ronald Piazza, 11th, "but have made many friends and have learned many things." Enrichment has been a mutually beneficial experience for Rhodians. While the deaf students are obtaining a finer education, the regular students have the experience of knowing and understanding the problems of the deaf.

Emotions to Release First Record

By ALLEN STAS

The Mixed Emotions, one of the most popular bands in Cleveland, will soon record their first record. "Forever You Have My Heart" with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra in the background.

"There are only two things I don't believe in, flying seasons or sellout records," stated Benny Elevenorsetter.

The five members of this band are: Benny Elevenorsetter, lead singer; Harry Elevenorsetter, 19, lead and rhythm guitar; Joe Kervile, 20, drums; and Johnny Joe Gardina, 17, bass from Midpark High School. Benny is the brother of the group and Johnny Joe for the Motions.

They are managed by Joe Mayer, former disc jockey from WKRP. Their manager is Tommy Baker, who also arranges for the Outsiders, another local group.

They believe the Raiders are the greatest bunch of guys, as people and performers, they have ever met.

They have been featured on a number of television shows and have performed with many famous stars such as the Raiders, Peter and Gordon, the Vogues, Terry Knight and the Pack, the Surfaris, and Bobby Sherman, popular singer from the past P.T.V. program of "Shindig."

Every Friday and Saturday night they play at the Stable Lounge in Painesville. On Wednesday nights they play at the Cave in Cleveland.

Weinmann Invents Unique Guitar

By JEFF GILAR

"This instrument when completed, can be used as a mandolin, a regular guitar, or a bass," states IZA Jack Weinmann, describing his new invention, the origuitar.

JACK, along with the help of his father and Mr. Jere Courter, physics teacher, is currently working on this unique invention. Along with the origuitar itself, Jack is also building the special amplifier which is to go with it and is quite complex. It must contain a separate circuit for each of the six strings of the guitar.

The origuitar will be from 28 to 30 inches long, approximately 12 inches wide, and will weigh about seven pounds. It will probably be made from cherry wood or some type of wood similar to it.

Aside from being unique in that it is three instruments in one, the origuitar is remarkable in that any combination of the three instruments can be played at the same time. This will be possible due to many switches that will be installed on both the origuitar and the amplifier. Consequently, there will have to be a separate circuit in the amplifier for each switch on the guitar.

JACK, who played many types of guitars, has a few other interests as well. Among them are electronics and an animal collection. At present he is raising two alligators, a guinea pig and a frog. He used to have two box constrictors but they died.

"Most of the people who have told me that this won't work don't know very much about the subject so they haven't thought it through," stated Jack.

When the origuitar is completed, Jack will have spent approximately three to four hundred dollars and will have worked countless hours on the project. He also hopes to obtain a patent on the origuitar and sell his idea to a large guitar manufacturing company.

After Graduating from high school Jack plans to do one of two things. Being interested in music, he has aspirations to play the flamenco guitar professionally. Having an interest in electronics, he is thinking of entering the field of electrical engineering or some other field of electronics.

JACK WEINMANN, 12A, poses with unfinished model of the origuitar.

Parlez-vous français?

French Class Uses 'Reader's Digest'

By LAURIE ZIELINSKI

Read any good books lately? If not, why not do as many advanced French students are doing and pick up an issue of the Reader's Digest?

"ONLY DON'T be too surprised if you can't read or understand anything written in the book. French students can, because the version of the Reader's Digest they are reading is written entirely in French.

At the beginning of the semester Mr. Anthony Hien, French teacher, gave his advanced class an opportunity to order the French edition of the magazine. About 20 members of the class subscribed to it. They have received the first three issues so far.

The periodical contains material similar to that of the English version. They even have cookbooks written in French to be redowned for money off of various items. The students don't think the neighborhood grocery store will accept the coupons, although some of them admitted it was worth a try.

"THEY ARE different," comments Miss Andrews, 19R, "and there are plenty of interesting articles in the books. I enjoy them more than reg'lar text books."

Mr. Hien believes that the books will lend interest to the class. Because the material in them is current, it builds in the students a desire to read French and thereby learn much more than they would from an ordinary text, according to the teacher.

Portable Tape Machine Craze Grows, Studies, Letter-Writing Are Simplified

By CAROL WEIDEMAN

It is small, handy, battery-operated, and relatively inexpensive. It is the latest electronic craze in the teen world, since the transistor radio and the electric guitar. It can provide hours of music, laughter, learning, and fun. It's called a portable tape recorder.

VALEDMAR POUlsen, a Danish engineer who devised the first magnetic recorder in 1906, may not have suspected the large market his invention would reach today. It is becoming in popularity, especially among young people, due to the development of the versatile portable.

The portable tape recorder has countless uses. For the reluctant letter-writer, it may provide an enjoyable and extra-personal way to correspond.

The music lover can preserve, on tape, memorable concerts or performances. Radio, television, and record-player music can also be taped to be enjoyed later.

A GIRL in North Miami Beach, Florida interviewed her friends at special times like "graduation, a school play, a birthday party." Afterwards, she presents them with these "gifts on tape" — collections of pleasant memories.

A tape recorder can make studying easier and more fun. It can be used for learning foreign languages, doing memory work, rehearsing a speech, or for testing yourself in almost any subject.

Collecting "autographs" is the suggestion of a teen from Great Neck, New York. She uses her portable to record conversations with visiting celebrities.

A REEL OF tape can replace the pages of a diary or serve as a "sound scrapbook" containing highlights of vacations, parties, and holidays. It can also make an interesting supplement to home movies.

The "portable recorder bug" has been known to strike anyone at any time. If this rising national movement should happen to capture you, be prepared with a little ingenuity for a lot of enjoyment.

ROSE SOBARNIA, summer guide at the Cleveland Health Museum, is shown in familiar surroundings.

Rose Sobarnia Gains Experience

As Summer Health Museum Guide

By MARY CHARVAT

As a volunteer guide at the Cleveland Health Museum, Rose Sobarnia, 11B, answered questions, introduced and explained exhibits, and gave lectures to such varied visitors as golden- aged, Head-Starters, Girl Scouts, members of the Club, and neighborhood children.

Rose got her summer job by being interviewed at the museum and having a written exam. Only ten out of thirty-five people passed the test, which required thirty-two hours of study.

Her average day was "routine but interesting. The usual questions asked, concerned prices of exhibits and their origins. Tours were conducted between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. They included such exhibits as the Ten, a life-like study in anatomy, and a machine that magnifies the heartbeats of museum visitors.

The young guide worked approximately three hours a day for an average of two days a week. She totaled 62 hours altogether and was among the girls who received charm bracelets for their achievement.

"I LIKED it a lot," states Rose, who has tentative plans of becoming a social worker. "I gained a lot of experience working with the under-privileged children around the neighborhood by teaching them correct hygiene.

The program, which started in June and ended in August, gave Rose the "rewarding experience" of meeting and helping strangers.

"I met a lot of interesting people including the director and the staff members. She says, "I really saw how a museum operates."
Ram Quintet Hosts West Cowboys in Season Opener

Gridders End Season, Krupa Romps 64-79.

Nailed by West Tech last Saturday afternoon were the Rams as they closed the 1966 season with a 20-6 loss. The end of this year's high school football season was the Rams' eighth straight losing season.

In last Saturday's contest with Tech, the first quarter was scored for by West Tech. After a West Tech fumble, the Rams came back in the second quarter with their only TD with a 64-yard run through the middle of the West Tech line by halfback Gary Krupa. Then the Warriors ended scoring action in the first half with a touchdown and the two-point conversion, making the score: West Tech 14, Rhodes 6.

The RAM defense held the Warrior ball carrier to only 60 rushing yards in the first half. The final score was West Tech 26, Rhodes 8.

Two weeks ago the Rams bowed to Holy Name with a 31-0 loss. Head Coach Jim Templin points out several team members who were outstanding in defense and offense. On offense were halfback Gary Krupa, and outstanding in the blocking department, AI Men, halfback, halfback. On defense, the coach reveals as outstanding players: right guard Doug Swozhoff, guard Carl Gielaski, left end Jim Keffer, quarterback Mike Grusich, and right end Jim Galli, who averaged twelve tackles per game.

"The prospects for next season are good," states Coach Templin, "because of the junior varsity performance, and numerous returning team members."

J.V.'s Close '66 Season With 3-2-1 Individual Performances Spark Team

By HARLEY MARENITIDES

Ending the season with a 3-2-1 record and gaining valuable experience in the process, the junior varsity football team is the J.V. Rams.

"This year's team really had the desire to win," comments Coach Tom Ehlert. "They found out that it takes a lot of work to make a winning team," he adds.

Mr. Ehlert pointed out that fullback Dick Deholver and quarterbacks Chuck Rieder and Doug Horsley took the keys to the offensive unit, even in the St. Ignatius game. Deholver was the leading passer of the team and he shared the scoring title with Chuck Rieder. Both boys backed over the goal post.

Outstanding performers of the defensive unit are tackle Tim Dembowski, safety Ron Americh, and line backers Ron Primmer and Nate Stum. Dembowski recovered seven fumbles and intercepted two passes in six games.

"All the boys on the team played well," states Mr. Ehlert. "There is not enough space to mention all 45 players and give them the credit they deserve, and I think all 45 boys will show up for practice next year. I'm proud of these boys, they worked hard."

Thimbles Take Sixth in Senate Meet, Junior Varsity Harriers Place Second

By BOYCE WATKINS

To cap the 1966 cross country season, the varsity Ram runners captured sixth in the annual Senate Meet held last Saturday at Ridgeway Country Club.

In this meet, which determines the city cross country champion, Rhodes placed second among all West Senate Schools.

"I AM PROUD of these boys, because the boys run as a team and not as a group of individuals," praises Coach Steven Teshenko.

Housing the senior varsity captain Jim Blackledge who placed fifth in the meet in a time of 11:12. Also placing for the Blue and Yellow were junior Jon Johnson, 26th; senior Greg Bucholz, 34th; and seniors Jerry Wilson, 37th, and Jerry Jermann, 46th.

The JUNIOR varsity thimbles finished third record in their division behind a strong John Marshall team.

"The junior varsity was well balanced team and did an outstanding job," states Coach Teshenko.

Junior Mike Gruskowski and Brian Conner led the J.V.'s by placing fifth and seventh respectively. Gruskowski's time of 11:05 was the fastest of both the Rhodes Varsity and Junior Varsity teams. ALSO SCORING for Rhodes were junior Doug Witting, 12th, and sophomore Bill Larkin, 14th, and Bill Lupin, 19th.

"The team had a respectable season and finished tenth as expected in the major meets," concludes Coach Teshenko.

The Rhodes Adult Booster Club will hold its annual fall sports banquet honoring the cross country and football teams Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Rhodes cafetera.

HEAD FOOTBALL Coach Mr. James Templin will award letters and special awards to the gridiron craftsmen.

Cross country letters and awards will be presented by Coach Steven Teshenko. Also speaking will be Junior Varsity Football Coach Mr. Thomas Ehlert.

Coaches' Comments

"I've told you a thousand times. Change his number."

"Okay, I'll tell you why you can't play football. You've got bad breath."

"Would you believe with this hand I can break two features instantly?"

"A plaque on both your houses."

"My Dad can beat up your Dad."

"Yeah, it's round. It has air in it. It's called a football."

The tenth annual All-Star Speedball Game was held yesterday in the boys' gym. Captain of the Trojans was Linda Lupin; Reid Gary was captain of the Spartans. As of press time there were no final scores.

Mrs. George is now recovering at home from her operation. Substituting in Mrs. Morgen, who has the help of the gym leaders are continuing to run the classes smoothly.

Girt's gym classes are now taking the National Physical Fitness Tests. Those ranking in the top percentile of each test will be awarded medals.

Applications for girls wishing to become Gym Leaders will be available sometime around Thanksgiving.

Congratulations to the winning speedball team of each grade. They are; senior team "Giris", junior team Horatio and the Bullfighters, and sophomore team The Funny Faces.
