

Students Compete For Art Awards

Twenty-five Rhodians have entered work in the National Scholastic Art Awards Competition. The Regional exhibition, sponsored by the Halle Bros. Co., includes more than 6,000 entries from junior and senior high, public and parochial schools throughout northeastern Ohio. Of these entries, about 600 were selected for awards and put on exhibition in the Halle Co. art gallery for one week, which began Monday.

Awards are made in 18 categories and two photography classifications. First place winners in the preliminary judging are awarded gold keys, and certificates of merit are presented to second place winners. There are also a number of honorable mention awards.

Further judging will determine a limited number of entries to compete for gold medals in the national exhibition to be held in New York in May. In addition, art students compete, by portfolio, for scholarships and cash awards granted by art schools and manufacturers.

Mr. Brenner Joins Science Department

Joining the Rhodes Science Department this semester is Mr. Dale Brenner who teaches regular and PSSC physics.

"I guess I enjoy teaching because I like children and find satisfaction in seeing them grow, assuming that their growth is due to my teaching," states Mr. Brenner.

Mr. Brenner

Mr. Brenner previously taught general science at Thomas Jefferson Junior High and is qualified to teach higher mathematics.

He received his B.S. in physics from Case, has done work toward his Master's at Western Reserve and received his teaching degree from Kent.

Vocal Contest Will Be Held March 11, Pits Students Against Age Standard

By CAROL GAGE

Rhodes will host the annual Vocal Solo and Duet Contest on March 11. The purpose of the contest is to rate individual singing ability as well as duets.

"THE STUDENTS," stresses Mr. Van Nortwick, chairman of the contest committee and vocal music teacher, "are not competing against each other, rather against a standard devised for their age."

Students from all Cleveland Public Schools are eligible. Junior high schools compete in the morning, senior high schools in the afternoon. Between 300 and 400 high school students will participate in the contest.

"SAY, CAN I have half your perogi?" Rhodes students enjoy all the comforts of home in the spacious student-controlled cafeteria.

Parrot Fever on Rise

Pigeons Plagued by Psittacosis

By Harry Marantides

"Never on a Sunday" has been protecting disease.

Even though pigeons have received the ax from the Ohio Legislature, permitting them to be killed every day except Sunday, they are waging their own battle against mankind by transferring a disease called psittacosis.

MORE COMMONLY called parrot fever, it resembles influenza, a virus pneumonia. People who come into contact with pigeons and their refuse spread this disease by tracking dirt into their homes and spreading it around.

Chills, high fever, severe chest pains lasting from three to 23 days, sore throat, and a dry cough are characteristic symptoms of psittacosis.

Psittacosis has spread rapidly across the U.S. It was so rare 30 years ago that a single case made front page news. Recently, Dr. J. R. Van Deller of Chicago reported three cases of psittacosis in one week!

HUMAN PSITTACOSIS is not a threat to human existence, but it has risen drastically percent-wise. In 1954, 563 cases were reported as psittacosis reached an all-time high. Compared to a few cases in 1930, this is a marked increase. Anti-biotics have reduced the human fatality rate to under one percent.

Crowded city conditions and the unlimited breeding of pigeons is a main reason for the increase in psittacosis in recent years.

Big Jack, Giant Among DJ's, Labels 'KY' 'Cream of Crop'

By CHRIS ULICKY

"This is your leader, Big Jackson, on WKYC!"

Every teen in Cleveland recognizes this howl as the trade mark of the fastest talkin', hardest hitting, self-acclaimed number one disc jockey in Cleveland. Now at 'KY, he just moved from WIXY where he reached this position of popularity.

"WIXY is now number one, but time will tell," he says. "The cream will always rise to the top. This (WKYC) is a radio station! This station will be number one!" Jack is also the host of the old Jerry G. and Company TV program, calling it, of all things, the Big Jack Show.

He got his start at WCHL radio in North Carolina.

"I LIED ABOUT my age," he explains, "When I was fourteen, I looked like I do now (twenty-one). I said I had more experience than I did . . . But I don't suggest you take the same route."

For two years he stayed there playing the hits of Frank Sinatra, Jack Jones, Roger Williams, and others.

"I got sick of it. You don't know how boring 'good music' can be," Jack says. After being fired from his next job, and four more jobs about the south, he tried the Air Force.

"THEY TOLD ME I was half deaf," Jack relates.

Finally he ended up at the newly formed WIXY in Cleveland.

"Most people think I was born here," Jack exclaims, "but it took me three years to get rid of my southern accent."

Big Jack started out as John Charles Larsh (his real moniker) and

Student-Run Cafeteria Recently Initiated Here

By PAT KORINCHAK

To improve conditions in the cafeteria during both lunch periods is the job of a student-operated system that went into effect last Friday. It is made up of representatives of all recognized student organizations.

"This is not a Student Council project, but a student body project working through the Student Council," states Miss Marjorie Hine, assistant principal.

THE CAFETERIA committee, composed of fifty students, is supervising the fifth and sixth lunch periods.

Each worker is in charge of three lunch tables. His job is to remind students to clean up, see that all trays are put away and lunch bags deposited in wastebaskets, check lunch passes, and dismiss tables when they are clean. Jam-ups at exit doors during lunch periods will also be eliminated.

"I think it is a significant responsibility and the first step toward helping a very large percentage of the students at Rhodes to be aware of the appearance of the cafeteria and to leave it clean for the people who come later," comments Mr. J. J. Stillinger, principal.

EACH LUNCH PERIOD has co-chairmen in charge. They are Gary Krupa, 12A and Karen Cummings, 11A, fifth period; Jim Keefer, 12A and Mary Ann McCreary, 11A, sixth period.

"Whether this project is to be a success is entirely up to the students," states Karen Cummings, chairman.

Uncooperative students will be reported to chairmen of the lunch period and dealt with by the teacher in charge of that period.

"IF THE STUDENTS abide by the simple rules provided for them, they will surely benefit," adds Jim Keefer, chairman.

"We don't plan for this to be a one-year job, but for this project to carry on through future years," states Miss Sonia Sasarak, Student Council advisor.

The project is being introduced with occasional teacher assistance and will continue with periodic meetings.

Korinchak Named Editor of 'Review'

Along with graduation, different classes, and new teachers, the new semester also brought a change in the editorial staff of the "Rhodes Review." Appointed editor is Pat Korinchak, 12A. Associate editor is Helen Pohlid, 11A. Page editors are Gayle Neithamer, 11A, front page; Carol Weideman, 11A, editorial page; Chris Figuli, 12A, feature page; and Jeff Forte, 11A, sports page.

"I feel that with the co-operation and hard work of the new staff we can continue putting out a newspaper that is equal to the high standards of past years," states Pat.

Mr. Turella serves as advisor to the staff.

St. Pat's Dance

F.T.A. and the Girl's Gym Leaders are co-sponsoring a St. Patrick's Day dance to be held on March 17.

Literary Page

Any student may submit material for the "Rhodes Review" literary page. Poems, essays, satires, book reviews, short stories, or other items suitable for publication should be sent to room 218 by Friday, April 14. Writing pins will be awarded for the best pieces published.

NMSQ Test

Today is the last day for students to register for the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The test will be administered here tomorrow morning at 8:30. The $1 registration fee should be returned with the registration slip to Mrs. Hrdy in the guidance office by 3:30 today.

Student Direction

Rhodes' cafeteria system has changed. Instead of teachers patrolling the lunch periods, students will direct them. Co-chairmen for each period will be in charge of a committee which will keep the cafeteria orderly and clean, and supervise dismissal.

Other schools have been using this system with success. There is no reason why it should not work at Rhodes, if all students co-operate.

It is the responsibility of every student to work with his classmates in order that this plan succeed. Rhodians are now being offered a chance to prove that they are mature enough to run their own cafeteria.

Abu-de'! Hey!

A few weeks ago the student body participated in the finest display of school spirit that Rhodes has seen in a long time. The ninth period pep rally undoubtedly helped spur the Rams to victory over Holy Name and Parma that weekend.

The 'Review' wishes to commend all who were involved in staging this fine rally, especially members of the 11A class and the faculty administration.

Also a highlight of the Holy Name game was the first performance of the newly-organized drill team, the Ramettes.

Special thanks and congratulations go to Miss Isabel Kulick, the Ramettes' advisor, who devoted much time and effort to the group's success.

More Cooperation!

Rhodes students were disappointed on two consecutive occasions when plans for dances were upset by the refusal of the hired bands to perform.

This was obviously due to misunderstanding of the terms between employer and employees.

To avoid such disillusionment and wasted effort, the 'Review' recommends that groups sponsoring dances in the future should carefully screen the band they want to employ.

'Endless Summer' Is Endless Dream

By CHRIS ULICKY

The Endless Summer is a super-surf-soaked spectacular, not to be missed by anyone. If you have the slightest inclination to savor one of the greatest action films ever, then see this flick. From the opening twangs of the theme to the final wipeout, this documentary on the sport of surfing is an eye and ear-opener guaranteed to keep you gawking at the edge of your seat.

In case you have been dead for the last decade and do not know what surfing is, you have missed a lot. Out where the whitecaps start and the curl forms, a crazy man attempts to stand up on a finned ironing board and ride the breaking wave until either it or he gives out. This is surfing and that is where most of the film was made.

The expressed reason for the film is a journey by two American surfers, Mike Hynson and Bob August, to find the perfect wave. They discover their prize at Cape St. Francis, South Africa, where they are the first to surf waves that seem to be manufactured by some divine machine. In the process they ride zebras, surf down desert hills, hitchhike a thousand miles,

In the historical novel, Portrait of Lisette, Elizabeth Kyle has created a full-length portrait of Vige Le Brun, a gifted artist and a brilliant 18th-century personality, known by her friends as Lisette. She also paints a vivid picture of Paris in the years preceding the French Revolution.

Agatha Christie's Cat Among the Pigeons is a story of intrigue and multiple murder. The author leads the reader down a trail of violence, by-passing the expected, to arrive at a set of stunning surprises when the astute Belgian detective separates the guilty from the innocent and unmasks the killer "cat."

In the unique and imaginative book, The Dropout, by Lucius F. Cervantes, the dropout speaks for himself about school, families, friends, and teachers. This intensely human document lays bare the causes and cures of one of the greatest challenges ever to face our society.

Editor's Mail Call

Dear Editor,

I would like to know why we have only 20 minutes to eat lunch. Could it be possible to have a fourth period lunch and make all three a full period?

Linda Turner, 10B

Dear Linda,

If 20 minutes is not enough time to eat, I suggest that you eat a bigger breakfast. If that isn't possible, eat a big supper!

Having a fourth period lunch and making all three periods full ones would not make enough room for all students. It would also conflict with study halls. This problem is not within the power of Rhodes because the time for lunches comes from the Board of Education.

Pat Korinchak, Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to know why we cannot have music piped into the cafeteria during lunch periods. It would create a much more pleasant atmosphere.

Marc Amos, 11A

Dear Marc,

Three years ago music was played in the cafeteria but was halted because it got a little out of hand making an unpleasant atmosphere. What if some students prefer Beethoven over the Monkees?

Editor

Dear Editor,

I'm a new student from Mooney. I don't know many people and would like to get to know more guys and girls.

Peggy Crouch, 10B

Dear Peggy,

The 'Rhodes Review' suggests that a good way to meet people is to get involved in school activities. There are about 30 clubs at Rhodes that always need new members. There are also various school activities such as sports events and dances in which to partake. Of course, the 'Rhodes Review' staff always welcomes interested and qualified students.

Mr. Schiros Heads Midwest Area Civic Council

By ANITA ARNOLD

"To communicate to students math skills, and help them to some degree develop into more mature individuals is my goal as a teacher," states Mr. Frank Schiros, math teacher.

In return, Mr. Schiros likes his students to display reciprocal courtesy, co-operation, inquisitiveness, a fair amount of work, and some thinking.

Mr. Schiros

A former student at John Carroll University, Western Reserve University, San José College in California, and Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago, Mr. Schiros holds a Bachelor of Science and a Masters Degree in mathematics.

As a geologist, Mr. Schiros did a great deal of traveling in the western United States and Canada before beginning his teaching career. From his geophysical exploration expeditions, Mr. Schiros developed a skill for hiking and camping and still enjoys camping trips with his family in western Ohio.

Civic and community projects fill a great deal of this math teacher's time. Last year Mr. Schiros was selected from several hundred candidates as Good Neighbor of the Year by the Rotary Club. He is president of the Midwest Area Civic Council and is presently serving on the Committee for Police-Citizen Relations, City-Wide Committee for Air Pollution Prevention, City Planning Commission, and various other organizations.

"I became involved with a few of these organizations about four years ago," he explains, "and later I was asked to join others."

Mr. Schiros feels that students should not conform to fads, but do more individual thinking. As an example, he cites students making special efforts to be a "greaser" or a "mod."

"There should be an active interest by students in school activities," comments Mr. Schiros, "and an awareness that they are, in fact, here to learn skills needed in the future."

Dr. Charles Keller Visits Here, Discusses Informal Class Ideas

By JOE SIMEONE

"It seems as though students of high schools have lost the inevitable question of 'why' in today's classes," stated Dr. Charles R. Keller, this semester's visiting scholar-in-residence at Rhodes.

Dr. Keller is a scholar in the fields of history and social sciences and graduated from Yale University with a Ph.D.

RHODES' DISTINGUISHED speaker has taught at Yale-in-China which is a missionary in Chung Sha, China set up by the alumni at Yale.

Dr. Keller, in his speech entitled "Quality Teaching: What is it?," said that the integral part of learning is the teachers ability to communicate to the students.

"THE LIBRARY," commented Dr. Keller, "should be a part of every class."

He also believes that there should be more freedom in high schools and classes should be conducted less formally.

From 1955 to 1957, Dr. Keller directed the Advanced Placement program administered by the College Entrance Examination Board.

DR. KELLER admits that he is against rows of seats in classrooms. He also feels that there should not be such a definite division in subjects, but more of an intertwining relation.

"Teachers should know young people and be able to work with them, realizing that they are very different from one another in ability, interests, ways of working and temperments," remarked Dr. Keller.

"THE TEACHER should belong to the 'draw it out' rather than the 'pour it on' school of teaching," he advised.

Visitation of the classes by Dr. Keller was made on Tuesday and Thursday.

Two Reporters Consult

Gypsy Predicts Romance, Success

By Barb Becker

"Teens today lack imagination," screams the weary journalism advisor. No imagination? Originality and nerve were needed by two staff reporters to consult the neighborhood reader and advisor.

Greeting the reporters at the door was the tiny, dark-skinned, black-haired gypsy, Madame X, with the words, "Come in, sit down. Do you both want a reading?" Answering in the affirmative, the students were led by the woman in her long dark skirt, white blouse, and black sweater, to a small room and proceeded to read their palms.

AFTER PLACING the money in the palm of the hand, the staff member was told to make a wish. Following a long pause, she began by stating, in her broken English, that the wish would come true. While clasping the reporter's hand tightly, she predicted future love affairs and marriage plans. More specifically Madame X foretold marriage in three years to a wealthy, influential spouse, five children, and much happiness and success.

Sitting in the bright room, glancing at a tapestry covered arch, she promised a trip this summer which would result in an exciting romance and the arrival of a letter that would be a pleasant surprise.

Speaking loudly so as to be heard above the noise of the traffic, Madame X summarized the emotional reactions of one reporter as kind-hearted, willing to help others, and enjoying company. The other member was described as nervous, excitable, wanting to retire from people at times, and subject to talk behind her back.

PROSPERITY in business, no illness in the family, and success in a chosen career was promised for both reporters.

Trying to conceal their laughter and disbelief, the reporters agreed to send all their troubled companions for the "worthy" advice.

Lockers Display Pupils' Interests

By BARB BECKER

"Looking through crystal spectacles," as the popular song says today, one can see many strange objects hanging from the lockers of Rhodes students.

Familiar surroundings and a little bit of home are accomplished through such articles as gum wrappers, liquor ads, pictures of beer bottles, and Chicken Man signs.

Other common decorations include Kleenex boxes, calendars, political signs, endorsing last election's losers, Chiquita banana stickers, Snoopy, minus the Red Baron, and pictures of Tom Faber.

Slogans for all types of occasions and activities are found in abundance. Some of these are "to err is human — Computer Department," Save Water — take a bath with a friend, QUIET — Hangover Zone, and Push — if that doesn't work — Pull. Others include "Do not bend, fold, or mutilate," — Jack the Ripper, and Keep America Beautiful — Visit Europe.

Honor Roll

A total of eighty Rhodians achieved Honor Roll recognition.

Juniors were Rae Arosen, Richard Balch, John Beatty, Laura Daniele, Chuck DeMio, Zoryslava Dmytrak, Pat

Hurless, Kathy Kirkwood, Nancy Lipowski, Lynn Maximuk, Jan Miller, Paula Nieckarz, Bob Price, Judy Rusknick, Renate Schill, Jan Struhar, Colleen Summers, Elizabeth Werle, Chris Ulicky, Carol Weideman, Doug Wittig, Laurie Zielinski, and 11A's Charlene Farson, Pam Felice, Jan Hirzel, Jerry Jermann, Tom Kissig, Holly Kuehner, Lois Lehman, Joan Lopata, Jeanette Sroka, and Arlene Swencky.

HEALTH CAREERS CORNER

PICKETING, NO! PROMOTING HEALTH CAREERS DAY, APRIL 22, YES!

Health Careers Day — clue me in.

Your chance to go behind the scenes in a hospital — meet R.N.'s, M.D.'s, O.T.'s and others. See your guidance counselor for a registration form and details.

O.T. — what's that?

O.T. means Occupational Therapist. The O.T. helps the injured or disabled patient to help himself. By involving the patient in work and play activities, the O.T. helps him regain physical health while also restoring his sense of usefulness and independence.

For instance, say our quarterback tears muscles around his elbow and has surgery. Can the O.T. aid the Q.B.?

Yes, by helping Mr. Football build up strength and coordination in his arm and fingers. The O.T. might start him doing leather work and model building, later move him on to woodworking and dart throwing. He'll be touch-down-tuned in no time!

So rehabilitation names this game.

Right. To play it, the O.T. needs 4 years of college, plus 9-10 months of clinical training and national registration. Ohio State University offers an undergraduate major in occupational therapy.

Does the O.T. play the game alone?

No, it's a team scene. The O.T. works with the patient's doctor and others, such as nurses, physical or speech therapists, psychiatrists, social workers.

How about job opportunities?

Rehabilitation is the big new trend in health care today. So the need for occupational therapists is great.

Want more information on O.T.? See your guidance counselor soon!

Ram Cager Squad Upsets West Tech, Extends Winning Streak to Four Games

Hopes for further tournament competition were kept alive Wednesday night when the Rhodes quintet pulled off an upset victory over West Senate champs, West Tech, in a close 36-34 contest.

Since the Rams won Wednesday night, they are to return to Baldwin-Wallace for a game with Brooklyn tonight. Brooklyn has an overall record of 11-7 as opposed to Rhodes' 14-4 overall record.

RHODES WON last Wednesday night's game at the foul line by sinking 12 out of 17 free shots for 71%. West Tech completed only 8 out of 16 for 50%.

Backed by over 250 Rhodes supporters the Ram quintet came from behind to roll over Olmstead Falls, 47-36, in the class "AA" sectional tournament held at Baldwin-Wallace last Friday night.

The local five saved their best performance of regular season play till the last two games. On Friday, February 3, the Rams played to a 70-45 stomping of Holy Name on the home boards. On Saturday night, the Rhodes five traveled to Parma and stamped the Redmen 63-49.

AGAINST HOLY NAME PresStar and Dreamteam member, Jim Kopania totaled 19 points while forward Brian Roggenburk scored 18 points.

"The Rhodes team had a tenacious defense," states head coach Mr. Andy Moran, "which allowed Holy Name only 11 field goals."

Against Parma, Kopania again led in scoring with a total of 29 points, the season high.

READY FOR ACTION are Rhodes' two champion wrestlers Bill Alford and Tom Bindernagel, fresh from victories in the state sectional tournaments.

Alford, Bindernagel Wrap Up Season With Sectional Wins

By HARRY MARANTIDES

Rhodes' sixth place finish in West Senate wrestling competition does not reflect the high talent which the Ram grapplers contained this season. Tom Bindernagel, 120, and Bill Alford, who wrestles 165, were two Rams who capped off their senior year with state sectional wins at Navy Park, February 11.

"CAPTURING this championship," comments Bindernagel, "has made me feel that I have accomplished something in my senior year."

Alford remarks that becoming the sectional champ has made his four years of wrestling worthwhile.

Both boys ended up with 7-2-1 records in senate competition. Each boy has already earned one letter in wrestling and will earn another for their efforts this year.

"I rate these boys in the top six wrestlers that I have seen Rhodes produce," states coach Tom Ehlert. "They have the knowledge and the moves that are required for wrestling. I think both will make good college wrestlers," he concludes.

Bindernagel hopes to specialize in some field of medicine while electronics is the field that Alford wants to branch out into. Miami University has already made an offer to Alford and Bindernagel has been approached by Hiram College.

JV Cagers End Six Win Season

By STAN SIENKIEWICZ

The end of the 1966-67 basketball season finds the Rhodes junior varsity cager squad with a record of 5-9 in the senate and a 6-9 overall record.

Prospects for next year's varsity team are Jim Slatinsky, Marty Blank, Joe Becker, and Dave Vodika.

Jim Slatinsky was the leading scorer with an average of 15 points a game and a high game of 27 points against Lincoln, December 2.

The J.V.'s captured two wins over Lincoln and Max Hayes and one each over West and Parma. An overtime loss to South and a loss to St. Ignatius in which Rhodes led most of the way, were seemingly the most disappointing defeats of the season.

Special recognition goes to the "Vultures," the third string team who showed up every day for practice to provide competition for the regulars, even though they hardly ever got a chance to play.

Ramblin'

For his outstanding scoring in the Holy Name game, February 3, and the Parma contest, February 4, junior forward Jim Kopania earned a PresStar and Dreamteam rating in the Cleveland Press and Plain Dealer. Kopania compiled a new high of 29 points in the Parma game and led the Rams with 19 points against Holy Name.

The results of the intramural home-room basketball tournaments are as follows: The tenth grade winner was homeroom 301, captained by Tom Tucillo; in the eleventh grade, Andy Pomnean captained 219 to victory, while homeroom 209, led by captain Dale Shaddock, swept through all twelfth grade competition.

Averaging 11 points and 11 rebounds a game for Florida Southern University, is cager John Jurecko (June '66), the only freshman starter on the team.

Rhodes Athletic Director, Mr. John Kresse, defeated Vin Kovaac to capture the Cleveland Y.M.C.A. class B handball singles championship. Mr. Kresse won games by scores of 21-7 and 21-6.

Cindermen Take on West High Today, Thinclads in Search of Fifth Victory

By AL STAS

Out to capture their fifth straight victory of the 1967 season, the thinclads take on West High at 4 p.m. on the underground track today.

In their first meet of the season the tracksters had a little trouble overcoming the Ignatius Wildcats by only six points due to injuries to key members of the team. However, they looked much more impressive against the Parma Redmen, winning by a score of 60 to 30.

HIGHLIGHTS of the Parma meet include the first place of senior Jim Gallagher in the shotput and then the capturing of first in the high and low hurdles. Captain Jim Blocksidge, after winning the 440-dash won the 880-yard run with one of the Redmen close behind. The mile and two mile relay teams won their events with little competition from the Redmen.

THE CINDERMEN, under the direction of Coaches Jim Zickes and Steve Tekesky, easily outclassed the West Techmen last Friday by a score of 71½-20½.

Varsity Grapplers Pace 5-5 Season

Three boys in state district competition and new talent for next year's team have highlighted a 5-5 season for the Ram grapplers.

Heavyweight Dominic Nasca, Tom Bindernagel, 120, and Bill Alford, 165, survived rough competition in state sectional competition but were eliminated in district matches at Midpark High School last Friday. These boys had a chance to be state champs if they could have placed first or second in their respective weight classes.

"Boys to watch for next season," remarks Coach Tom Ehlert, "are Al Musca, Ed Vanselow, Mike Fait, Dean Holman, and Bill Carney. Mike Fait improved greatly and so did Ed Vanselow until he broke his finger," he adds.

The following is a recipe for success which is inscribed on the walls of the wrestling room: "A champion must have the desire for perfection and the will to punish himself in the process." This year Rhodes had three champions and next year Rhodes hopes to produce more.

1967 Indoor Track Schedule

- Feb. 28 — Lincoln and Ashland at Rhodes, 4:00
- Mar. 3 — John Adams at Rhodes, 4:00
- Mar. 10 — Subway Meet at Rhodes, 4:00
- Mar. 14 — Arena Field Events at Arena, 4:00
- Mar. 17 — Arena Indoor Meet at Arena, 7:00
- Mar. 23 — Mansfield at Rhodes, 4:00

Novice Division Champ

Dennis Elbert Captures Boxing Title

By Tim Dembowski

If asked if there are any boxing champions at Rhodes, the average Rhodian would probably reply, "I doubt it."

To clear up any doubts, fears, suspicions, or credibility gaps concerning the existence of a champion boxer attending classes at Rhodes, simply read on.

The boxing champ's name is Dennis Elbert, 10A. His official title is light-weight champion of the Cleveland Golden Gloves novice division. The novice division is the one that all new fighters join.

SPONSORED BY the Charles A. Mooney Center, and trained by Bob Giachetti, Dennis won the 135 pound weight class championship of the novice division.

"I first became interested in boxing," points out Dennis, "when I was a little guy."

DENNIS ELBERT displays the winning form that enabled him to win the 135 pound novice division championship.

With a 4-0 record Dennis beat Ed Walker in the championship match staged at John F. Kennedy High School. Having to fight a playoff before the big bout, Dennis' left arm was strained. This strain caused the tearing of ligaments in his arm. However, throwing mostly rights, the champ came through with a decision to win the title bout.

FOR HIS 5-0 record, and boxing ability throughout the tournament, the Cleveland Sports Writers Association awarded him a trophy as being the most promising fighter in Cleveland.
