Art Exhibition Is Friday

By CHRIS KONOPINSKI

Fifty art students will display their achievements of the past academic year in the Annual Student Art Exhibit.

The exhibit will be displayed along the first floor corridor walls, beginning Friday, May 26 to June 2.

"The purchases give the student a stronger motivation to continue his art performance," comments Mr. Anthony Eterovich, Art Department head.

THE EXHIBITION WILL consist of oils, water colors, tempera, ink drawings, collages, and prints. In all, there will be an estimated 70 to 80 works displayed.

"The selections," states Mr. William Stacks, art teacher, "are comprised of paintings and drawings by Rhodes' art students including the entries and award winners in the recent National Scholastic Art Competition."

IN SOME CASES the finished product will be achieved on the night before the exhibit, due to the endless efforts of the artist to guarantee his best accomplishments.

In the last exhibition an average of $200 in art sales by the individual students was attained.

All-City Instrumentalists to Perform, Severance Hall Hosts Annual Concert

By NANCY LIPOWSKI

All-City Band and Orchestra will perform at the fourteenth Annual Instrumental Concert tonight at 8:00 p.m. at Severance Hall.

Participants in this concert will be the Cleveland public school students who have been selected in competition as members of the All-City musical organization.

RHODES' MUSICIANS who will contribute to the largest annual All-City event are clarinet players Dave Barty, Elaine Evans, Louis Gangale, Nancy Johnson, Bruce McGarvey and Richard Strubbe.

Kathy Kirkwood, Linda Stipek and Darlene Barack will play the flute while Ellen Bray, Carol Pappas and Jean Hoskin play, respectively, the bassoon, trumpet and oboe.

ALL-CITY ORCHESTRA includes Rhodian violinists Pete Fedynsky, John Gates, Kathy Kopacka, Stan Pollack and Aarne Tammissaar, Clarinet players are Bruce McGarvey and Joyce Duffala; oboe and bassoon are played by Chris Pekrul and Debbie Mager, respectively.

The program will include the band's performance of Tchaikowsky's "Finale from Symphony in F Minor" and "Scenes from the 'Louvre'" from Norman Dello Joio's award winning television production.

THE ORCHESTRA WILL perform the prelude to "Die Meistersinger" by Wagner, and "Matinees Musicales on Rosinni Themes, March, Pantomime and Waltz" by Britten.

"The Instrumental groups performing tonight," states Mr. Bendall, instrumental music teacher "are musically outstanding and always present an enjoyable show."

Home Ec Classes Organizing Bazaar

Vinyl beachbags, felt objects, aprons, and bakery, will be sold at a bazaar sponsored by the Home Economics Department on June 1 and 2. Proceeds will go toward the purchasing of an overhead projector and transparencies for the department.

Miss Marie Lanese, department head, will be in charge of the Pin Shoppe, which will be making the bulk of the sewn articles. Other contributions will come from the vocational classes of Mrs. Eleanor Harris.

The food will be taken care of by the Flour Shop, under the care of Mrs. Carol Barnes, and by Mrs. Vivian Sturgis' Homemaking classes.

Miss Marcia Ejchost's Consumers' Education classes will be in charge of the displays and advertising.

Ulicky Wins Council Presidency; Cummings, Yunich, Evans Elected

Student Council officers for the year 1967-1968 were elected on Tuesday, May 9, during homeroom period.

They are Chris Ulicky, president; Karen Cummings, vice-president; Kathy Yunich, secretary; and Elaine Evans, treasurer, all 11A's.

FOR THE OFFICES of vice-president and treasurer, a plurality among candidates was not obtained, and a run-off was taken last Thursday.

Elaine Evans was voted treasurer, but again a plurality was needed for vice-president. Student Council representatives

Madrigals, Triple Trio, Octet, Soloists To Perform at Vocal Music Program

By PAT KORINCHAK

Choral program favorites will be sung by the Rhodes' Senior Choir, Madrigal Singers, Boys' Octet, Girls' Triple Trio, and Glee Club at the Spring Concert next Thursday in the auditorium at 8 p.m., announces Mr. Gilbert Van Nortwick, vocal music teacher.

Central Volunteer Bureau Sponsors Summer Work

Making plans for summer vacation?

Why not spend a few hours a week doing volunteer work? There are many job openings in the fields of nursing, teaching, social work, and business.

Interviewers from the Central Volunteer Bureau will be here next Friday to interview the students who filled out forms in homeroom Tuesday.

The bureau stresses that volunteer work offers a student experience in holding a job. It can be used as a reference for future jobs or college. Also, it gives the student an idea of the type of work he is interested in.

Working along with Miss Hine, assistant principal, to set up the program this year is Linda Aber, 11A.

'Aries' Members Chosen, Felice Is Named Editor

Pam Felice, 12B, has been chosen editor of the yearbook, the January '68 Aries.

Also on the staff are Kathy Dziama, Marlene Enderlein, Charlene Farson, Dale Irvin, Nelson Miller, Kurt Sauer, and Arlene Swencky, 12B's.

"We will make an all-out effort," says Pam, "to do our very best. The staff will try to uphold the high standards of past yearbooks."

Mr. William Stacks, art teacher, is the yearbook sponsor.

the choir will open the program with the processional "Russian Hymn." Other sacred selections are "The Heavens are Telling," "Salvation is Created," "Let All the Nations Praise the Lord," "Tenebrae Factae Sunt," and "Hallelujah."

THE MADRIGALS WILL sing "My Bonny Lass," "Rise Up My Love," "Rest Sweet Nymphs," and "Come Away Sweet Love." They are led by Lois English, 12A.

Greg Galan, 12A, will lead the Boys' Octet in the singing of "Man's Best Friend," "Joshua," "My Lord What a Morning," and "My Love is Like a Red Rose."

SELECTIONS FROM the Girls'

101-Voice Choir Cuts First Album

For the first time in the history of the vocal music department, the Senior Choir will record an album, according to Mr. Gilbert Van Nortwick, vocal music teacher.

THE RECORDING WILL take place on June 7 in the Rhodes auditorium. The album will include selections performed at the Spring Concert and a few other numbers.

Albums will arrive in the school about July 1. They can be purchased for the price of $4.00 each.

THE ALBUM WILL record the voices of 101 Rhodians altogether.

"I just have crossed fingers," comments Mr. Van Nortwick, in regard to the project's success.

P.T.A. Members Elect New Officers

"New P.T.A. officers have been elected," informs Mrs. Paul Schar Schmidt, president of 1967.

THEY ARE Mrs. Frank Barack, president; Mrs. Charles Hoskin, vice president; Mr. J. J. Stillinger, honorary vice president; Miss Marjorie Hine, secretary; Mrs. William Wischmeier, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Zielinski, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Albert Kawentel, treasurer; Mrs. Schar Schmidt, historian; and Mrs. Harry Aukerman, counsel delegate.

Alternates are Mrs. Robert Baker and Mrs. Leroy Lehrke.

"Everyone is invited," says Mrs. Schar Schmidt, "to attend the P.T.A. card party."

THE EVENT IS to be held at Estabrook Recreation Center on Fulton Road next Thursday.

Anyone wishing to attend the card party may purchase tickets from any board member or at the door.

"Also I would like to thank everyone who helped to make our rummage sale a great success," states Mrs. Schar Schmidt.

The P. T. A. made $242 on the rummage sale.

Triple Trio, under student leader, Joyce Duffala, 12A, include "Dancing in the Dark," "Lullaby of Birdland," and "Tenderly."

Kathy Kirkwood, 11A, will accompany the Girls' Glee Club in the singing of "Ave Maria," "Hear Our Prayer," "I Could Have Danced All Night," "Malaguena," "Liza," and "Hansel and Gretel Prayer."

THE SENIOR CHOIR will climax the evening in formal dress with selections from "Sound of Music," "More I Cannot Wish You," "Hernando's Hideaway," "Blue Tango," a folk song, "The Turtle Dove," and "Waters Ripple and Flow." Soloists are Lois English and Craig Curtis, 12A's.

Alumni of the Rhodes choir are invited to the stage to join in the singing of "Now the Day is Over," and the Benediction.

"WE HOPE THAT many students, parents, and alumni will come and enjoy the program," states Mr. Van Nortwick.

Members of all vocal groups are selling tickets for 75 cents which may also be purchased at the door.

Summer Clearance Sale Held on All Paperbacks

Summer Clearance Sale of all paperback books is now being held, according to Mrs. Hiram Folkman, head of the English Department.

Thirty-five cent books will be sold for twenty cents, forty-five cent books for twenty-five cents, sixty-five cent books for thirty-five cents, seventy-five cent books for forty cents, and ninety-five cent books for fifty cents.

All other books will be sold at a fifty per cent discount.

This sale will continue until all the books are sold.

Yearbook Dance

The 12A yearbook staff will sponsor the "Dot Dance" tomorrow night in the Rhodes gym.

Better Assemblies

LAST SEMESTER four assemblies were staged, not one of them reflecting upon what the students were doing in the various departments of the Rhodes curriculum.

Many students pursuing one type of course, such as academic or business subjects, do not know what students taking art or shop classes are learning. It would be most informative for these pupils to know what sort of skills their fellow students are acquiring.

The "Rhodes Review" feels that students should know what is going on in the departments with which they are now unfamiliar. This could be accomplished by having each department present an assembly once a year to show what its students are achieving and why. The programs could be highlighted with demonstrations and short talks by some representative students.

These assemblies would prove to be beneficial to all teachers and students, not just a select few. They would serve to promote greater interest in classes and more unity in the student body.

This system has been employed by other schools in the Cleveland area. The "Rhodes Review" feels that the adoption of such a plan would be a worthy addition to the school's program.

Creative Vandalism

WHITE WALLS ENGRAVED with bold black. Bulletin boards emblazoned with "immortal" words. Auditorium seats skillfully carved.

These are a few examples of student talent exhibited daily at Rhodes. Such exhibits add an unusual and distinctive flair to what would otherwise be a clean but drab school.

Rhodians are fortunate to have a testing ground for their creativity. Walls, lockers, desks, and chairs are supplied through the courtesy of taxpayers. These materials seldom escape the artists' tools — pencils, pens, lipstick, and knives.

Undoubtedly, the privilege of being a showcase of self-expression through art will be preserved by certain "dedicated" Rhodians.

These budding artists may suffer a setback, however, if materials become scarce and if fellow Rhodians fail to appreciate this new art form.

McQueen Depicts Navy Life

Beauty, Tragedy Mingle in 'The Sand Pebbles'

By NANCY LIPOWSKI

There is a certain kind of man for whom the life of the sea affords a long-sought freedom and a respite from the complications of the world. Sailors reduce life to its simplest point or to no point at all. In "The Sand Pebbles," Steve McQueen as Jay Holman, engineer, was one of these men.

After expulsion from school in Utah, Holman's future, in accordance with school authorities, was channeled toward the branch of his choice in the armed services. In nine years at sea he had obtained seven transfers, the most recent assigning him to the San Pablo, a gunboat headed for Shanghai. China at this time, the late 1920's, was torn by warlords and oppressed by foreign opportunists and internal revolutionists. A simple play on words deemed the crew "The Sand Pebbles."

Steve McQueen's own reputation as a loner made it possible for him, in the role of Jay Holman, to be thoroughly honest and con-

Logan Lathes, New Welding Station Give New Appearance to Metal Shop

By BOB SKLARZ

Whirring, humming, hammering, and buzzing. Do these sound familiar to you? If not, take a walk in the main hall during one of Mr. James Zickes' metal classes.

Many projects are made in metal shop, and now, with the addition of new machinery and better facilities, the work can be pepped up a bit.

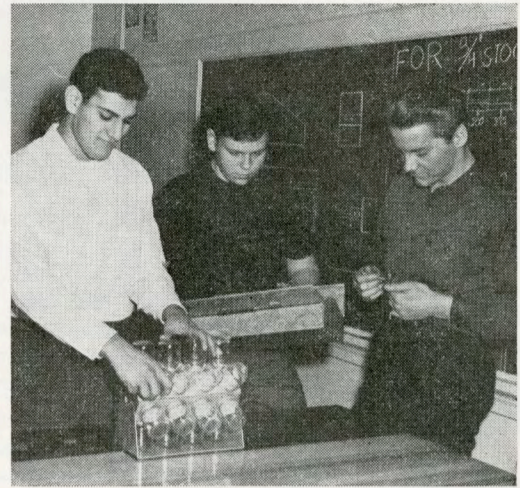

"We have seven new 14-inch Logan lathes this semester," states Mr. Zickes, metal teacher, "along with three gas welding stations, three arc welding stations, and one spot welder."

Some of the projects made in metal shop are tool boxes and small-parts tumblers, consisting of glass jars on a revolving shelf in which parts are kept.

"We also have a new Bridgeport verticle milling machine," says Mr. Zickes, "which may be the most expensive piece of equipment in the shop, valued at around $2600."

The more advanced metal classes may work on such projects as drill press vices or gauges. "One student once made a surface gauge in shop class by copying the manufacturer," states Mr. Zickes. "It ended up being better than the original."

INSPECTING THEIR METAL projects are from left to right, Dominic Nasca, 12A; Stan Kawa, 11A; and Frank Rusnak, 11A.

The Roving Pollster

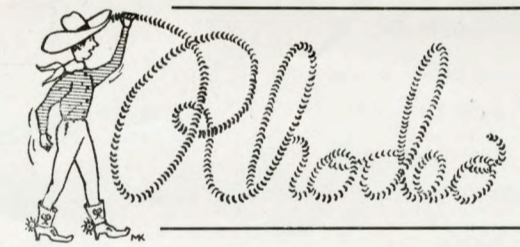

Students Protest Peanut Butter, Liverwurst

By RON PARASKA

With all the teenage demonstrations these last few months, a list of Rhodian protests seemed inevitable. Here are a few examples which Rhodes students and teachers gave in reply to the question, "Name one thing you would like to protest."

- Sue Damas, 12A: "Perogies."
- Michael Knight, 10A: "Peanut-butter sandwiches."
- Sharon Kulik, 11A: "Unhip people."
- Larry Weber, 10A: "Steve."
- Mary Ann Sroka, 11B: "Silence."
- Mrs. Nancy Covert, world history: "Non-appreciation of the Great Concept of Ancient History."
- Jim Brown, 10A: "The Roving Pollster."
- Jenny Matey, 10A: "Liverwurst sandwiches."
- Doug Wittig, 11A: "Witty, question-avoiding, involved answers to 'Letters to the Editor.'"
- Nancy Lezak, 10A: "War and the draft."
- Shirley Skandera, 11A: "Last-minute term papers."
- Dennis Bors, 10A: "Trials in homeroom."
- Kathy Papp, 12A: "The cafeteria napkin rule; limit, two to a customer."
- Terri Maloof, 10A: "Watercolors in art class."
- Vera Jannazo, 11A: "Cafeteria food."
- Juanita Paschall, 10A: "The leaky ceiling in the English room."
- Linda Moss, 11A: "Report cards."
- Gail Graca, 10A: "A.T. classes, they're not fair to the dumber kids."

- Mr. Joseph G. Stasko, math teacher: "Our current rainy weather."
- Cindy Nasser, 11A: "The paper straws in the cafeteria bend and the milk won't come up."
- Dick Strubbe, 12A: "Eighth period Boys' Chef Class."
- Dale Griffin, 11B: "School."
- Jacki Rhodes, 12A: "The belief that materialistic goals can bring happiness."
- James Stein, 12A: "People who protest."
- Richard Kalynchuk, 11B: "I protest the fact that there is a 'no smoking' ordinance in the team locker room."

Students Sound Off

Dear Editor:
The valedictorian is the most scholarly person of the graduating class. It seems to me that at most graduations he usually participates in the commencement exercises. Is there a reason that the valedictorian at Rhodes does not speak at commencement?
Debbie Miller, 10A

Dear Debbie:
Commencement exercises are planned each semester by a different department. Speakers are picked by the departments and are usually students who have been prominent in that department. In addition to these speakers, students participate in tryouts for speaking parts in the commencement.
Mr. J. J. Stillinger, Principal

Dear Editor:
Why is it that yearbooks are not issued earlier in the 12A semester? Many students do not get all of the signatures that they would like to.
Dale Griffin, 11B

Dear Dale:
There are many reasons that yearbooks are distributed when they are. First, and probably most important, is that it takes three months to assemble a yearbook and another three months to print it. Another reason is that it has been a tradition at Rhodes to pass out yearbooks on Honor Day. The person to whom the yearbook is dedicated is honored on that day. Also teachers think that seniors now have sufficient time to obtain signatures. Signing yearbooks in class would only add to the confusion.

Dear Editor:
Why do you always give sarcastic or insufficient answers to the letters to this column? It seems to me that many useful ideas could be put to use through this column.
Wayne Miller, 11A

Dear Wayne:
We are sorry that we have been tagged with giving "sarcastic or insufficient" answers but we try to get the honest-to-goodness answers to questions. When we can't, we improvise.

Duffala Possesses Perfect Pitch, Talented Musician Plays Bassoon

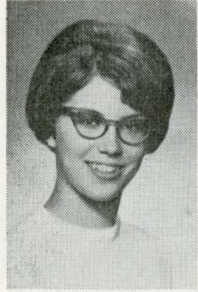

By GAYLE NEITHAMER

One person in several thousand has perfect pitch. Joyce Duffala, 12A, is such a person.

"Perfect pitch," says Mr. Robert Bendall, instrumental music teacher, "is an inborn ability which enables a person to sense the frequency, or number of vibrations per second, of a given pitch or any number of pitches at the same time. It cannot be learned."

In addition to bassoon, which she plays in the school orchestra, Joyce plays drums, piano, violin, and flute.

Two years ago,

Joyce

Joyce auditioned to play at Chataqua for a summer session. She won a complete Martha Jennings Scholarship for the summer.

Besides playing in All-City Orchestra and singing in Girls' Glee Club and Triple Trio, Joyce is a member of the Women's Orchestra. She plays first bassoon.

A bassoon duet by Joyce and Debra Mager, 10A, was selected as the outstanding woodwind group at the City Instrumental Contest last April. They performed the duet on the "Pace-makers in Music" show on WBOE.

"There have been many outstanding musicians who have attended Rhodes," states Mr. Bendall, "some of them fine enough to be members of the Cleveland Orchestra. Joyce takes a back seat to none of them and is certainly one of the finest musicians ever to attend this school."

Arachnid Collector Speaks with Pets

By MARY CHARVAT

EEEEK!!! There is an arachnid with purple and yellow legs on your back! Although Jenny Matey, 10A, may jump with fright at the word "arachnid," meaning spider, she has six of them as pets.

SHE STARTED collecting spiders two years ago when she captured one crawling across the kitchen floor. She now has various species of white ones and some small red ones. When a spider dies another one is caught to take its place.

Spiders are easy to take care of in Jenny's point of view. They eat everything from ground-meat to ants, and can, according to her, hold twice their weight in food.

JENNY KEEPS her pet in glass jars in her bedroom. Though she likes to watch them, she confessed they scare her and she never took them out of their jars or touched them.

"When I get lonely, I talk to them," she reluctantly admitted.

CLUB CAPERS

Pro Grappler Bobo Brazil Knocks 'em Dead at Arena

By TIM DEMBOWSKI and STAN SIENKIEWICZ

"Come on in," instructed Gale Egan, wrestling promoter of the Cleveland Arena, "Bobo's inside waiting for you." We were ushered into the wrestlers' locker room, and there he was, all six feet six inches and 297 pounds of grappler — Bobo Brazil.

Born Roby Brazil in Benton Harbor, Michigan, he attended Lake Michigan High School. In school, Bobo was active in baseball, wrestling, and getting into trouble.

"At Lake Michigan High," Bobo states, "I was known as a real tough cat; nobody messed with me."

BOBO WAS the state of Michigan's high school heavyweight champion two years in a row. His coach was Jimmy Williams, a former professional wrestler.

Brazil used to go down to a Detroit gym and watch the pro wrestlers work out and wrestle. One day he went up to Joe Sivolli, the promoter of matches, and challenged a local pro and was booked for the next night. Did he win?

"Shoot," replied Bobo, "I cleaned up the ring with the man."

Wrestling professionally for 17 years, the veteran pro has won the Wide World Federation Championship, The United States Championship and the British Empire Championship.

HAVING WRESTLED in all the major cities, Bobo considers the wrestling fans the toughest of sports fans.

"They are more boisterous and demonstrative. Why, one night in New York at the Garden," Bobo grunts, "some nut comes screaming and running out of the stands and right into the ring. The cops finally came in and took the guy away, just before he was going to hit me with a chair."

In a rough contact sport, Bobo has had his share of injuries. At various times in his career Bobo has had a broken shoulder blade, leg, elbow and knee.

WORLD FAMOUS for his "Cocco Butt," Bobo explains that he developed it by pounding his head against a wall of plywood until it cracked, the board that is.

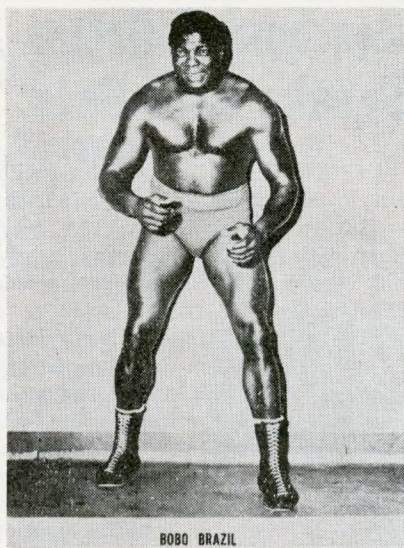

"I also like to use the Domino Stretch," Bobo continued, "With this hold I wrap my leg around my opponent's left leg and get my shoulder underneath his right shoulder, then I just crunch."

The next question was asked quite painfully, not because of the question's subject matter, but because Brazil was now standing on the reporter's left foot.

BOBO HAS no special routine to stay in condition. His work outs consist of mostly push-ups and sit-ups.

Self-backed, Bobo stays on the pro tour all year round. However, he will take time off for three week vacations. It is during these vacations that Bobo pursues his two hobbies; fishing and watching the New York Yankees.

Match time was drawing near so we had to leave the locker room. As we waved good-bye, he muttered something about "Where's Rhodes High?"

Chosen over representatives from all girls' gym classes was Helen Bedik, 12A, 1967 Posture Queen. Muriel Grossfeld, teenage consultant for Campbell Soup Company, was the guest of honor. Miss Grossfeld, formerly an award-winning member of the United States Olympic Gymnastic Team, now travels throughout the country to promote "fitness through gymnastics."

Girls Leaders Club will hold their biennial Alumni Reunion in the girls gym June 2. Of the close to 600 women who have been Leaders since Rhodes opened, the present Leaders expect to host about 250 alumni. A talent show will follow the dinner. MaryAnn McCreary, 11A, is in charge of refreshments.

Last Tuesday's all-star bowling between the faculty and girls resulted in a faculty victory. The teachers' "A" All-Stars beat the Girls' "A" All-Stars 5 points to 2. Pelletti's 489 was tops for the girls while Miss Glaiter's 466 and Mrs. Leslie's 444 were tops for the faculty.

The Faculty "B" team beat the girls' "B" team 4 to 3. Jan Miller was tops with 433 for the girls while Mrs. Seidel's 371 led the faculty.

Relay Team to Run In Mansfield Meet

By HARRY MARANTIDES

Rhodes' mile relay team represents the only Ram qualifier in tomorrow's meet at Mansfield.

The team, consisting of Dave Kozyk, Jim Blocksidge, Jay Johnston, and Detlef Reschke, came from behind to pass Berea on a fine team effort paced by Jay Johnston's third leg in the relay. Johnston sped around the track in 51.9 seconds to put Rhodes in the third position.

COMPETING AGAINST 21 area teams, Rhodes' 6½ points earned them a fourteenth place finish in the district meet. John Marshall and Valley Forge battled for first place honors.

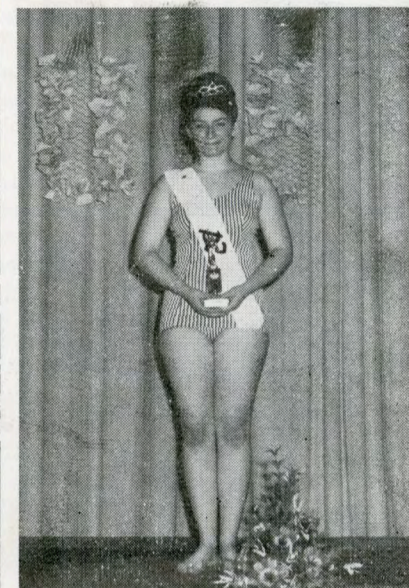

Rhodes placed in three other events. Detlef Reschke sprinted to a fifth place finish in the 440 yard dash. Jim Gallagher took fifth place in the 180 low hurdles and the 880 yard relay placed fourth. Only the top three positions qualified for placement in the regional meet.

"I think the team will be able to place in the regionals," comments Coach Jim Zickes, "Our team had a better time than the top three places at the Elyria district and I am confident that the boys can beat the other teams who placed ahead of Rhodes," he adds.

IF RHODES can place in one of the four top spots at Mansfield, the team will go on to state competition at Columbus the following week.

Sue Onnie, 12A, was elected 1967 Track Queen over five other candidates, by balloting in homeroom. Attendants were Kathy Papp, 12A, and Margaret Johns, 11A.

ALL SMILES AFTER being chosen the 1967 Posture Queen is Helen Bedik, 12A. The contest was held April 29 with representatives from all girls' gym classes competing.
